

Informal Picnics and River Parties Lure During Hot Wave-Potomac Park Popular-Bathing Beach Visited by Many.

BY SALLIE V. II. PICKETT.

UTDOOR life in Washington last week was made doubly attrac tive by several events, such as the two championship bouts between the Cuban and American polo teams, two charming garden parties at Dean place-that of Thursday afternoon, given by the Women's Foundation, while yesterday the National Women's Press Club held sway there. There were informal picnic parties, too, and river parties, while the Potomac Park speedway presented an ever moving panorama of motorists who were always sure of a breeze. One of the particularly interesting spots in that vicinity is the bathing beach, and diplomats and official and resident society folk all drive that way to catch a glimpse of the overcrowded pools, where little aristocrats bathe side by side with the less fortunate.

THE President and Mrs. Harding were hosts a number of times during the week, notwithstanding the heat, having important men in poli- of this week. tics and finance as guests, but perhaps the proudest visitor they entertained was Warren Pershing, the young son of Gen. Pershing, who took luncheon with them on his birthday anniversary, his father and his grandfather, Senator Francis E. Warren, sharing honors with him. The fact also develops, too, that Mrs. Harding, unlike her predecessors in the White House, cares but little for automobile trips unless she has a positive destination ahead, such as Valley Forge, or the McLean place in Virginia. She cares most for her walks on the White House terraces or about the winding paths of the south front lawn—and, too, it is said she is planning to have the breakfasts and dinners for herself and the President served on the western terrace.

Friday was not the first time Warren Pershing has been the guest of the ruler of a great country, for he has met and visited with the King and Queen of England—Queen Mary showed a great fondness for himand with the King and Queen of the Belgians and other crowned heads and is much at home in any surrounding, being more of a traveler than generally falls to the lot of a youth of his age. He joined his father in France while the general was enjoying the results of his great triumphs, and both men and women took particular interest in him. He sat with Queen Mary in the royal box to see the troops go by after the armistice signed, and he paid far more attention to the soldiers than to her.

ONLY a few things of larger moment are on the calendar for this week the most important of tomorrow being the reception at the Army and Navy Club in the evening for the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Denby, when the club members will be hosts. Tuesday ight Dr. Sze will entertain at dinner for some visitors of distinction from China, and the week will end by almost the entire official and dipatic contingent leaving Washington to remain over July 4.

The ambassador of Great Britain will spend July 4 in Ann Harbor, Mich., where he will deliver an address; the minister of Rumania and Princess Bibesco will go to Hyde Park, N. Y., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, and many of the younger diplomats are engaging for week end house parties in various places outside the capital. However, Washington will not only have a splendid contingent of officials over the fourth, but they will remain until Congress closes, taking only occasional trips away. Such potentates as Senator Phipps of Colorado, who owns beautiful Single Oak; Senator Norris of Nebraska, who has a charming home at Cleveland Park, or Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, who has the whole of Rock Creek Park for his front yard, need not worry. It was shortly before Mrs. Smoot left for her home in the west a week or two ago that a friend, fond of an early stroll along shaded highways, stopped at their home on Connecticut avenue, just at the end of the bridge. It was Sunday morning, and Mrs. Smoot asked her caller to stop in for breakfast. This visitor avowed that never had she made a, more delightful visit. There was the breakfast table so placed as to give a view of the park, and the table laid in the daintiest of linen embroidered in blue birds, while the breakfast china had the same delightful carriers of joy as a decoration. There was a blue posy on the table and there were dainty things to eat, and, above all, a gracious host and hostess. And all so early in the morning, too. When in the heart of this family the guest remarked that she had never seen such perfectly trained servants, a maid of many years' service responded: "That is because they have not such a mistress to train them."

London Social Season

MRS. LUTHER C. JEFFRESS A bride of June who was formerly Miss Margaret Bruce Looney

Tight Money Keeps Debu-

LONDON, June 18.—All society is bemoaning the failure of the London season. The week preceding the Derby should have seen social gayety approaching its height, but the wide-spread effects of the coal crisis have put a damper on the round of pleasures scheduled for this time of the year, and old stagers find it hard to recall any similar period when so little private entertaining was done. No society debutantes are coming to town. Shortage of money has caused many society folk to cancel all their many society folk to cancel all their London engagements and to spend the summer as cheaply as possible in the country. By the king's desire, courts have been postponed and hotels and theaters are reporting

There are a number of overseas vis-itors in London, but "not enough to go round," as one hotel manager put it, and were it not for the Americans n despair.

Dressmakers, tailors and entertainment caterers are doing next to noth-ing, the reason being that the present period of industrial unrest makes it mpossible to see a month ahead. Efforts were made to make the Hen-Efforts were made to make the hen-ley regatta a social success. Henley is always a gay dress pageant. Accord-ing to the fashion papers, the modish colors are yellow and red, with flower and fruit designs and with hats trimned with wreaths of imitation vegetables.

The only benefit the coal strike has conferred upon London is the absence of smoke and fog. The continued clearness of the atmosphere is surconcert by the band, the musicians being the particular guests of the occasion.

The garden, running on Massachusetts avenue and 16th street, rolls gently down from the massive residence to the street, and in it are many forest trees and a splendid growth of flowering shrubs and plants. The band was stationed lower down on the lawn and one of the features of the program which most delighted the guests, was "The Voice of the Alps," the bugler going up into the clump of trees to play his response to the call. Tea was served, Miss Mary J. Williams, hostess of the home, doing the honors of the afternoon. Mrs. Calderon Carlisle, president of the board of directors, and Mr. and Mrs. "William Corcoran Hill, the former president of the board of trustees, were among the guests.

The only benefit the coal strike has conferred upon London is the absence of smoke and fog. The continued clearness of the atmosphere is surprising Londoners, who are discovering views of their city the existence of which they hardly suspected. Public health has benefited very greatly, according to official health statistics. There has been an astonishing decrease in bronchial and pulmonary complaints. Pneumonia cases have gone down as much as 50 percent, compared with March.
